City Council Prepares to Go Ahead With Income Tax

Mayor's Group Is Criticized For 'No Report'

Solicitor Primm Also 'On Carpet' For Absenteeism

The possibility of the city adopting an income tax in the near future became evident as a result of last night's City Council meeting.

Three councilmen expressed an intention to go ahead with the proposed ordinance — possibly next week — regardless of the outcome of the various investigations going on by citizen's committees.

The issue was brought to a head by Councilman Carl Abe who asked Mayor Dean Cranmer again for the report from his committee supposedly studying the necessity of the tax.

Mr. Abe noted that he last asked for a report from the Mayor on May 3, and was told at that time that the report might not be made until the end of the year. He stressed that "Somebody has to get on the ball and do something about the current money shortage."

Sufficient Time, Council Says
However, the mayor said he has no report from his committee yet but that he planned to meet with them Friday. Councilman Abe said he felt the committee had ample time to investigate the matter and cast some doubt as to whether or not such a committee was in existence.

Councilman Fred Koenreich joined Mr. Abe in his assault on the problem, stating all the mayor has done so far towards helping the financial situation is to threaten a veto of the tax ordinance.

Koenreich expressed disappointment at the meeting held Monday night before which the Mayor stated a report would be forthcoming from the Joint Income Tax Study Committee. The meeting resulted in no suggestions from the Committee not already made in their formal report made earlier this year and as far as Council was concerned added nothing to its available knowledge of the financial quagmire.

Mayor Cranmer said he was told by members of the committee that they did have a report to make to Council and that he had expected them to submit it.

Councilman Abe, in pressing for action on the income tax, said he felt it was time Council "went ahead and did its job. We should all resign if we don't," he declared.

Councilman Koenreich and Councilman Harold Asty joined Abe in his request for action. Koenreich stating committees had been given ample opportunity to offer some constructive advice and Asty stating that too many of the suggestions already made were based on "selfish interests."

In view of the development, Councilman Koenreich has called for a Council committee session next Tuesday night to discuss the changes necessary in the existing proposed income tax ordinance to make it fit current demands and the collection period yet remaining in the year.

Koenreich also noted that some provision would have to be made to get some of the proposed income from the tax into the general fund immediately. He suggested that it would possibly have to come from the storm sewers section.

Solicitor Is Criticized

Hinging on the next meeting was a demand by Councilman Ralph Zimmerman that City Solicitor James D. Primm be present for the next meeting. He said, "we must have legal advice, before making changes in the ordinance." Primm was absent from last night's meeting and came in for more criticism earlier in the evening from Councilman Koenreich.

Koenreich suggested that "the solicitor shouldn't be paid if he doesn't show up at meetings." He asked that his remarks be made part of the Council minutes, stating, "He (the solicitor) is going to have to do his work or somebody else will have to do it."

Primm has been absent from several meetings since the first of the year, rarely asking to be excused. He is obligated to be present at the meetings by city ordinance.

Pay Sources Changed

In other action last night, City Council approved an ordinance on first reading making it possible for clerks in the public utilities department to receive two thirds of their pay from water revenues and the

Council Lops $21,000 From General Fund

Budget Reduction Hints of Cutbacks

City Council last night adopted a budget for 1961 showing a $21,000 decrease in the General Fund income and expenditures as compared to the current budget. The General Fund total for 1961 has been set at $257,910.

The cut in the budget is reflected in Police and Fire Department Funds where provisions have been made to reduce expenses by cutting an amount equal to the salary of one man in each department. In the police department, the money usually used for Adult School Patrolmen also has been cut for next year.

Council has threatened to curtail services unless new sources of revenue are found.

Councilman Fred Koenreich, chairman of Council's Finance and Appropriations Committee, said he was not certain all of the cuts would have to be made nor was he sure that some more would not be added. He said all the Committee had to go on was anticipated receipts and expenditures based on previous years' performances of the funds.

The cut in the Police budget was $6,939.16 from a total in 1958 of $80,784. In the Fire Department the cut was $4,878 from $72,560 of a year ago. The School Patrol received $3,500 in the budget a year ago.

Other cuts include $534 in the Solicitor's fund; $1,134 in the Board of Health; $2,000 in Street Lighting; $2,409.29 in Public Buildings; $780 in the Engineering Department; and $3,234.66 in Bonds and Interest.

Only increases were $400 for police immunization and $500 for Public Employees Retirement System.

Major portion of the cuts was

House to Act On Health Bill

Probably Will Pass Measure Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House takes up today a state-federal program of health aid to a limited group of needy and near-needy older persons.

Indications were the measure will be passed today and sent to the Senate, where proponents of a much broader health benefit program for the aged hope to revamp the measure to fit their own ideas.

No such broadening can be attempted in the House. It is taking up the bill under procedures which allow four hours of debate, no amendments, and a take-it-or-leave-it vote.

The minimum health measure on which the Ways and Means Committee agreed after eight weeks of disputes is estimated to cover perhaps 1½ million persons. Benefits might actually go to from 500,000 to one million in a given year.

In coverage, as in many other ways, the proposal differs radically both from social security-financed proposal backed by labor unions and many Democrats, and from the plan sponsored by the Eisenhower administration.

Each of these would cover an estimated 10 to 12 million persons. Under the proposal before the House, each state could set up a new category under its public welfare program. It would include older persons not destitute of means for ordinary living but unable to pay heavy medical bills.

Each state would decide how much to provide in benefits for such persons, up to maximums including 120 days hospitalization, unlimited doctors' services, $200 worth of drugs and $200 worth of laboratory fees.

The federal government would contribute, according to the resources of each state, 50 to 65 per cent of the cost. The price tag has been put at about 195 million dollars federal, 147 million state funds annually.

$1.8 Million Collected In Real Estate Taxes

LISBON A total of $1,812,828 has been received in the collection of second half 1959 real estate taxes, County Treasurer Vincent C. Judge said today.

A heavy volume of mail dated June 20, the deadline, remains to be processed.

President Plans Report on Tour Of Far East

Will Hit Back at Red Chinese Charges Trip Was Failure

HONOLULU (AP) — President Eisenhower was reported today to be planning to hit back at Red China claims that his Far Eastern tour was an ignominious failure.

The President's rebuttal and a contention that much good was accomplished despite cancellation of his visit to Japan will come, it was understood, when he reports to the American people next week.

Radio-Television Address
Eisenhower will make a nationwide television-radio address within a few days after returning to Washington. Present indications are he will arrive there Saturday or Sunday.

Announcement of the President's plans to go on the air was made by White House Secretary James C. Hagerty as Eisenhower, who arrived in Hawaii from the Orient Monday, continued to relax in glorious weather. He arranged to play another round of golf today.

The President talked over his Far Eastern journey by telephone Tuesday with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, in Washington.

Believe Trip Successful
After the 25-minute conversation, Hagerty reported that both Eisenhower and Herter feel that the President's visit to the Philippines, Nationalist China and Korea were completely successful.

Hagerty said in response to news conference question that the two men had not discussed the Washington-out of the President's plans to go to Tokyo for three days starting last Sunday.

The trip to the Japanese capital was canceled because of what Eisenhower and Premier Nobusuke Kishi called Communist-promoted rioting in Tokyo.

Saying he had not seen a complete account, Hagerty declined comment on Herter telling a congressional committee that the administration had misjudged the riotous situation which led to cancellation of Eisenhower's Tokyo visit.

No Additional Trips
Told that Herter also testified that Eisenhower is abandoning personal high-level diplomacy and plans no more goodwill trips abroad, Hagerty remarked only that he has been saying for some time that he knew of no arrangements for any additional trips outside the country.

Even as the President made plans for a TV-radio report after returning to Washington, the Red China radio was denouncing the whole Eisenhower journey as an ignominious failure.

Launching an "anti-U. S. imperialist week" the Peiping regime said Tuesday that everywhere the President went he "made a laughing stock of himself and was condemned."

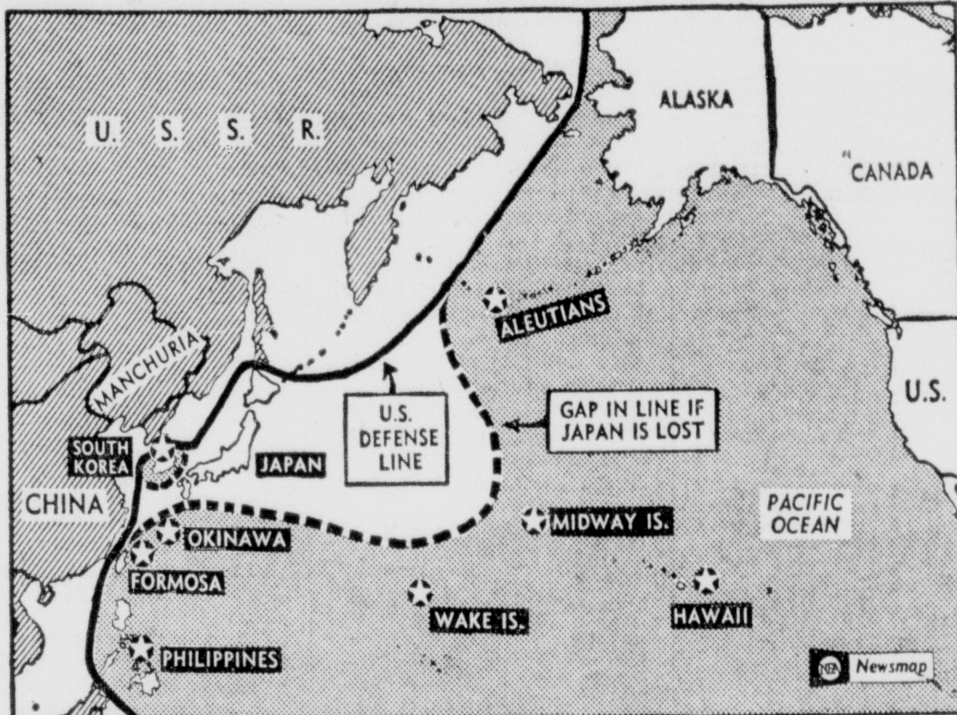

West Branch Board Will Organize

The Board of Education of the newly created West Branch Local School District will hold an organizational meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Beloit School building.

W. C. Smith, superintendent of Mahoning County schools, called the meeting.

Members of the West Branch Local School Board are Norm A. Barnett of Smith Township; John L. Denny, Knox Township; Dr. J. Fred Jose, Butler Township (Damascus); Leland Glass of Beloit and Richard Burton, Goshen Township.

A meeting of the Mahoning Local board at Sebring has been scheduled for tonight, following a session of the Mahoning County board today to discuss items related to the split of the Mahoning Local district.

TROUBLES INSIDE JAPAN have underlined that nation's importance in America's defense setup in the Pacific. U.S. strategists are pondering the consequences should the Japanese government topple and be replaced by an anti-American one. As Newsmap above shows, loss of air and troop bases in Japan would leave American forces in Korea somewhat isolated. More important, loss of naval repair yards in Japan—largest in the Pacific outside Hawaii—would throw the Navy's support line at least as far back as Midway and Wake Islands and as far as Hawaii and the U.S. mainland in some cases.

Senate to Okay Japanese Treaty

Leaders Expect Little Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — Swift and overwhelming Senate approval of the new 10-year security pact between the United States and Japan seemed assured today.

A vote on the treaty was deferred unexpectedly Tuesday night after about 6½ hours of debate. But leaders said it was simply a case of senators being tired and wanting to go home.

Agreement was reached to vote after an additional half hour of debate at today's session.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate Republican leader, said he thought no more than 8 to 10 votes would be cast against the treaty.

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in a separate interview that there might be 10 to 12 opposition votes.

A two-thirds majority vote is required to ratify a treaty.

Following Senate ratification, only President Eisenhower's signature and an exchange of ratification documents with Japan are needed to make the treaty effective.

Plans called for flying the U.S. documents to Hawaii, where Eisenhower is now resting en route home from his Far Eastern tour. Japan completed the last of the preliminary formalities early today as Emperor Hirohito put the imperial seal to the treaty soon after Premier Nobusuke Kishi's Cabinet had given it final approval.

The 10-year treaty replaces one signed with Japan in 1951. It is designed to give the Japanese more status of an equal ally rather than a conquered power. One year's notice after the 10-year period is required to make changes in the treaty's terms.

The United States, agrees for the first time in writing to come to Japan's defense in case of attack, and relinquishes a former right to crush internal disorder in Japan. It also agrees to consult with the Japanese government before making any changes in its armed forces, weapons or bases there and before deploying Japanese American forces anywhere in Asia.

It retains for the life of the treaty the right to maintain military bases in Japan, but gives up its veto power over letting a third nation have bases in Japan.

Mob of 40,000 Warily Disperses

Leftist Demonstration In Japan Fizzles Out

TOKYO (AP) — An 11th-hour leftist demonstration to stave off activation of the U.S.-Japan security pact lost steam tonight as a mob of 40,000 began warily dispersing.

The snake-dancing columns shouted "Down with Kishi" and "Dissolve Parliament" as they circled the Parliament building and thundered past the Foreign Ministry and Tokyo police headquarters after a morning of short strikes. But a predicted turnout of 100,000 failed to materialize, and by nightfall the demonstration apparently had fizzled.

The controversial pact, which gives the United States bases in Japan for another 10 years and promises American defense of this former enemy nation against outside attack, needed only U.S. Senate approval and the exchange of ratification instruments to become law.

The exchange of documents in Tokyo is expected to come within hours after the Senate approval and President Eisenhower's signature in Honolulu.

Plans for delivery of the ratification documents were surrounded with secrecy in an effort to thwart the desperate leftist opponents of the treaty. Students, laborers and Socialists were reported planning to blockade U.S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II and Foreign Minister Aichihiro Fujiyama in their homes to prevent them getting together to complete the formalities.

Premier Nobusuke Kishi's Cabinet put its final approval to the pact late Tuesday night, and Emperor Hirohito affixed the great imperial seal to it soon after. To prevent leftist interference, the documents were taken secretly to each Cabinet member individually and then to the Emperor.

Extremist students and labor unions staged a giant transport strike which tied up the nation's rail, bus and streetcar communications for four hours this morning.

Government workers carried out a four-hour sitdown in front of their offices in Tokyo and coal miners left the pits for 24 hours. Many stores closed in support of the leftist campaign.

The leftists demanded that Kishi resign and dissolve Parliament to prevent the exchange of the treaty ratifications and force a general election in which the alliance with the United States would be the chief issue.

Confirmation of Orbit 1½ Hours After Launching

Thor-Able-Star Missile Used to Score Space 'First'

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The United States, scoring a spectacular space "first," rammed two satellites into orbit with a single rocket today.

The doubleheader rocket that turned the trick was a two-stage Thor-Able-Star, an Air Force vehicle making only its second flight. It rose smoothly from its searchlight-illuminated pad at 12:55 a.m. and streaked like a fiery comet toward the southeast.

The second stage fired for about four minutes shut off and coasted for 20 minutes, then reignited for 13 seconds to kick the satellites into orbit.

Crammed With Instruments
The two new moonlets flashing the skies are Transit II-A, a second experimental navigation aid satellite, and a basket-ball-sized aluminum sphere crammed with instruments to measure solar radiation.

The latter is called a "piggy back" satellite because it hitchhiked a ride aboard the larger Transit payload.

Transit II-A is a 36-inch ball weighing 22 pounds. The tinier 42-pound package, looking much like a sea diver's helmet, was clamped to it until a spring device separated the pair in orbit.

America tried once before, with a Vanguard rocket, to fire a pair of satellites into orbit simultaneously, but failed. As far as is known, the Soviet Union has not attempted such a feat.

Pass Over Seattle Station
Confirmation of orbit came 1½ hours after launch when the satellite duo—the smaller leading the way—passed over a Seattle station on their first globe-circling passes.

Navy officials in Washington reported the satellites were spinning approximately in their intended orbits and were transmitting strong signals. They said it would be some time before the exact apogee and perigee are determined.

Both were aimed at near-circular orbits 500 miles high and at courses which would take them over all parts of the world between the Arctic and Antarctic circles. This covers most of the Soviet Union.

Transit II-A is an advanced version of Transit I-B, which was hoisted into orbit by the first Thor-Able-Star last April 13. Both are forerunners of an operational network of Transit satellites that can give ships, submarines and airplanes accurate location fixes in any weather, day or night, anywhere in the world.

Two or three more test transits are scheduled for launching before the system becomes operational, probably in 1962. Then, four of these space lighthouses will whirl about the earth in evenly spaced orbits. They will radio a constant stream of information to be translated by navigators into longitude and latitude.

They are expected to provide accurate fixes within one-tenth of a mile. Present navigation aids give position fixes of half a mile at best and are dependent on weather.

The Defense Department has given high military priority to the Transit program because of its importance to Polaris missile submarines. By extending a whip antenna above the ocean surface, these nuclear subs will be able to obtain a position reading from the nearest Transit. This information would be vital in plotting missile trajectories.

Primary mission of the piggy back satellite was to measure various types of radiation in the ionosphere, an electrified belt extending from 35 miles to several hundred miles above the earth.

Kennedy, Johnson Supporters Trade "Can't-Win" Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of the two leading prospects backed away at each other today with "can't-win" charges in the final pre-convention phase of the contest for the Democratic presidential nomination.

It's the type of political infighting that is more effective in campaign workers' private contacts and meetings of small groups than in the speeches and statements intended for public consumption.

Backers of Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) were contending that Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas couldn't win in November even if he should get the nomination—which they say they are confident he won't.

The Kennedy people find it sufficient from their standpoint to inquire if interested Democrats believe the Texas senator can carry New York, California and other large states. Their implication is that he can't.

Johnson's associates take the same line, with variations. They assert question when they arrive in any state is: "Can Kennedy carry your state?" They don't bring up the subject of Kennedy's Roman Catholic religion, but the implication is there.

The Johnson men—and the Senate leader himself for that matter—also are peddling the political line that Kennedy, a youthful appearing 43, hasn't the experience and maturity to handle Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and other pressing world problems.

While politicians generally think this is an effective gambit, many of them believe that it may be too late in the day to head the Massachusetts senator off from the nomination.

Kennedy's delegate strength has particularly impressed some of the supporters of Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.). Their confidence seems to have dwindled that there will be a convention stalemate which might permit the man from Missouri to surge forward as a compromise candidate.

Johnson's men write Symington off as no serious threat. They appear serenely confident that within a short time after the convention gets under way they will have former president Harry S. Truman on their side.

They think Eleanor Roosevelt, who supports Adlai E. Stevenson, couldn't have been more correct—she said that Truman really favors Johnson and not Symington.

Truman reiterated in New York Tuesday that "Stuart Symington is my candidate and the only man I'm interested in now."

But despite Truman's insistence that he never deserts a candidate, Johnson supporters like to emphasize his use of the word "now," and argue that if Symington falls by the wayside, Truman won't be long in joining their cause.

Truman's chief value is that the party pros like him and might listen to him if a touch-and-go situation arrived. If he teamed with House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.), who is plugging Johnson, the Texan would have back-room manipulators of the first order.

Nixon, Rockefeller Differ On Economic Growth of U.S.

By The Associated Press

Further evidence emerged today of the sharp differences between candidates in both the Republican and Democratic races for the presidential nomination.

On the Republican side, the latest evidence was in public view, Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York offered it in major speeches Tuesday.

On the Democratic side, the latest evidence involved private party meetings. Supporters of Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas were exchanging warnings that the other man couldn't win in November.

The Nixon-Rockefeller difference concerned the nation's economic growth and its method of making high policy decisions.

In a speech in St. Louis, Nixon criticized those who say that the Soviet Union is growing at a much faster economic rate than the United States and who call for government steps to change this.

"The critics argue that if we would just adopt their pet economic philosophy we too would grow like the Soviets," Nixon told the National Junior Chamber of Commerce.

"They invite us to join them in playing what is rapidly becoming the most fashionable political parlor game of our time—a game we might call 'growthmanship.'"

But Rockefeller, in a television interview in Binghamton, N.Y., said economic growth was "far more important than a parlor game. It affects the lives and well-being of the people of our country."

The governor, who says he would be available for a Republican draft at the national convention, has called often for an increased growth in the economy.

In an address before the Binghamton Rotary Club Tuesday, Rockefeller said "there is something seriously wrong with the working of the decision-making process of our government."

He said the government needs a super-cabinet official, a First Secretary of the Government to "assist the President in the exercise of his authority in the whole area of national security and international affairs."

This proposal was considered once by the Eisenhower administration and rejected. Rockefeller's revival of it was considered a criticism of administration policies, which Nixon has defended.

But, despite these differences, Nixon, likely winner of the nomination, said at a St. Louis news conference that "the Republican party is the most unified since 1956 when President Eisenhower was the unifying force."

In the Democratic political infighting, Kennedy supporters were asking party workers whether Johnson, a Texan, could carry

New York, California, and other large states. The Kennedy people's implication was Johnson could not.

On the other hand, Johnson supporters were asking party workers whether Kennedy, a Roman Catholic, could carry any of their states. The implication of the Johnson people was that Kennedy could not.

Another Democratic candidate, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, gave a television audience his estimate of the relative strength of the United States and the Soviet Union.

"We have lost a great deal of strength," he said on the taped show—Today, NBC.

In Sacramento, Gov. Edmund Brown dashed the hopes of Democrats who wanted to get some of California's votes committed to them before the first ballot at the national convention.

He told an interviewer he would not release the state's 81 votes before the convention. They are pledged to him.

Kiwanis, Rotary Clubs Hear Talk By State Auditor

A talk on the life of Mary Todd Lincoln, delivered by James A. Rhodes, state auditor, and a recognized authority on the life of the Lincolns, was the main feature of the program Tuesday at the combined meeting of the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs.

About 80 persons heard Rhodes describe Mrs. Lincoln as a faithful and devoted spouse to President Lincoln in spite of some opinions to the contrary.

He said the commitment of Mrs. Lincoln to a mental institution was a conspiracy of high Republican Party leadership and of fraudulent affidavits by her own son. He noted that she had sufficient reason for mental anxiety having lost two sons, each of whom died in her arms. A third son, Tad, was born with a speech impediment.

In closing Rhodes stated that the wealth of material on the Lincolns, anticipated in the Robert Todd Lincoln papers on his death in 1923, never materialized. He said it was hoped that these papers would reveal much of the workings against his mother.

The Rotarians were hosts at the noon meeting held in the Memorial Building. Rhodes was introduced by Milton Steiner.

Capital Finally To Get Vote

House Passes Bill; Senate Okay Seen

After 160 years of trying, residents of the U.S. capital city (747,932 of them by 1960 count) appear on the verge of attaining the significant, although limited, recognition that they are, after all, American citizens.

With only two hours of desultory debate and without a roll call, the House of Representatives has initiated by the required two-thirds vote a constitutional amendment which would permit Washington residents to vote for president and vice president.

Representation of the District of Columbia in the electoral college, however, would be frozen at the level of the smallest of U.S. states, that is three members, and there is no accompanying right of either congressional representation or local self-rule.

This measure now is before the Senate, which seems sure to approve it, and is subject thereafter to acceptance by legislature of 38 of the 50 states.

Assuming the Senate passes the resolution, there is hardly any doubt that Washingtonians will be voting for president and vice president by 1964.

THE PECULIAR nonvoting status of the District of Columbia began in 1799 when Maryland and Virginia joined in tendering 10 square miles of territory, together with gifts of money for erection of government buildings, for use as a seat of the national government.

On July 16, 1790, the first U.S. Congress accepted this offer with promise that the capital would be so established within 10 years.

Actually, President John Adams moved, on June 3, 1800, into a still incomplete White House.

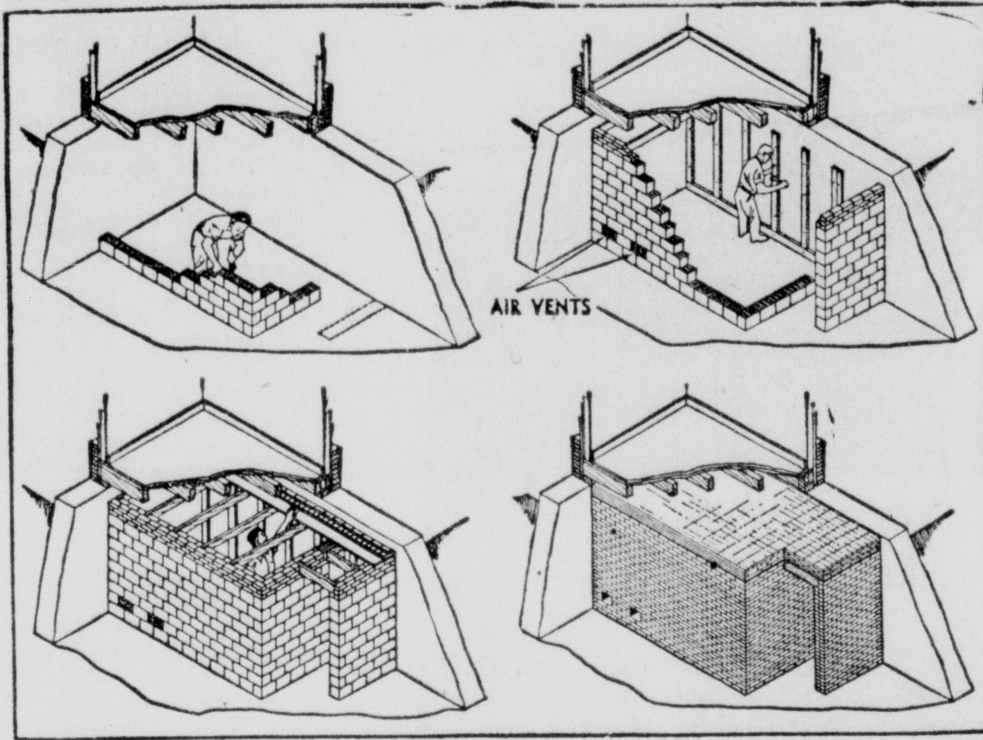

The executive branch of government was opened June 7 with a force of 136 clerks and on the following Nov. 15, Congress assembled in a Capitol building even less finished.

Pertinent to the present action, the government so assembled neglected wholly to consider the status of persons who might have been caught within, or who later moved to, the capital area without otherwise established citizenry rights.

Washington City was chartered in 1803, with a mayor appointed annually by the president.

In 1820 the mayor was made elective by the people, and in 1871 an administration was set up — headed by a governor appointed by the president, assisted by a local house of delegates and a single nonvoting member of Congress — elected by popular vote.

Basement Fallout Shelter Plans Available

This is one type of basement fallout shelter recommended by Leo A. Hoegh, Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization director. Steps in its construction are shown, above, in sketches that are included in a booklet, "Clay Masonry Family Fallout Shelters," available from the OCDM in Washington. The booklet states that such a shelter can be constructed by a do-it-yourselfer and a friend in two weekends. All requirements such as heating, lighting and ventilation are included in the booklet.

Conduct of the latter government proved so bad that only three years later, in 1874, Congress wiped it out completely and established rule by a presidentially appointed board of commissioners which has persisted ever since.

The present change, in fact, is aimed in large part to head off a return to the 1871-74 popularly elected local government. A bill to that purpose is now pending, only 13 votes short of endorsement by the majority of House members required to bring it to a vote.

Figuring in the congressional situation concerning the District for many years past has been its close division between white and Negro residents. A large proportion of both races originates in the South.

WHITE PERSONS from that section generally have retained citizenship, including the right to vote, in the states from which they came. But Negro residents are expected to comprise more than half of the total population of the District of Columbia in the present census. Many of them never have voted and, with increasing numbers, their demand for the ballot has steadily risen.

Heretofore, control of pertinent committees by Southern Democrats has headed off action. But there have been signs of late that the dam would not hold much longer.

Thus it happened that the House Committee on rules, headed by Rep. Howard Smith (D-Va.), suddenly voted right of way for the constitutional amendment, which was restricted to voting for president and vice president.

Smith and other Southern members laid great emphasis on the fact that this measure is in no sense "home rule" from the standpoint of establishing a popularly elected local administration.

It remains to be seen whether that broadening of self-government for the District can be stalled off in future.

Matter of Fact

Here is the story of perhaps the first "fence mender." In 1879 John Sherman, an Ohio statesman, arrived at his farm to find his fences sagging. Explaining his visit to reporters, he said, "I came purely on private business—to repair my fences and look after neglected property." Since that time "fence mending" has meant "politicizing" to most of us.

It's an old custom for peddlers to roam the streets of London singing out their wares and services. In early times a dentist who called himself "Kind Heart" claimed he removed teeth painlessly. He called, "Touch and go! Ha! ye work for Kind Heart, the tooth-drawer? 'Patients' were treated in the street. No appointments, no waiting.

A clever physician has a bit of the detective in him. On sight, he can tell an amazing number of things about people. Such a doctor was Joseph Bell, who used to astound his medical school classes with his penetrating diagnoses. Among Dr. Bell's students was Arthur Conan Doyle, who never forgot him. When Doyle became an author he recalled Dr. Bell — and created the master detective, Sherlock Holmes.

Britain's Big Show

By JIM DOYLE

Would you like to snare butterflies from a helicopter? Or pinpoint an airplane's position without the use of radar? Are you interested in a piece of furniture built with the loving care that might have gone into it in the 17th century? Or bridging a canyon with a king-sized erector set?

If you're interested in any of these, then the place for you is the British Exposition in New York's Coliseum. The show stays open until June 26.

By a happy coincidence, impressive Sol Huok is bringing 500 of Britain's crack troops to the United States a week later, and their inimitable precision drill, to the accompaniment of some of the finest military bands in the world, will be seen at Madison Square Garden. A few blocks from the Coliseum during the latter part of the British Exhibition.

The Coliseum show marks the first time that British industry, art, and government have collaborated to display "the best of Britain" in the United States.

THE IMPORTANCE Great Britain attaches to this effort is indicated by the fact that Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, flew here for the sole purpose of opening the show.

To the average American, the show, one of the few to occupy the full four floors of the Coliseum's exhibit area, presents glimpses into the shared heritage of the two countries much of consuming interest and a few salutary reminders that we, unlike the Russians, did not invent everything. Virtually every segment of British industry, from tweeds to tractors, is on display.

The famed shipyards that have built much of the world's merchant fleet are there in miniature; there are automobiles ranging from sports and economy jobs to the lordly Rolls-Royce (only the "low-price" Rolls, retail value about $16,000, is on the floor, but helpful attendants will tell you all about the more luxurious models.)

There are fabrics and high fashions, fine china and silverware, a model of a nuclear reactor, cutlery, electric motors and heavy machinery.

Much of the industrial side of the show is devoted to showing how Britain's proverbial craftsmanship has been adapted to the atomic age. There are dozens of displays of industrial and scientific precision instruments, electronic devices, and other specialized equipment.

Much of it has never before been seen in this country. The non-radar navigation device is hooked up with Newark Airport and visitors can watch it pick out individual planes as their pilots talk to the tower. It is now undergoing U.S. government tests and its manufacturers hope that eventually it will supplement radar and other standard navigation aids at many American airports.

ONE OF THE principal purposes of the exhibition, of course, is to stimulate British exports to the United States, which passed her billion-dollar mark for the first time last year.

But the British way of life, British culture and the arts are not neglected.

One floor is devoted entirely to contemporary British art. That fine old British institution, the corner pub, is also represented, dispensing mild and bitter in pewter mugs and that great British boom to thirsty mankind, Scotch whiskey. British gin is available, too.

The airborne butterfly chaser is part of a child's dream of toyland dreamed up by cartoonist Rowland Emmet, complete with a working model of one of Emmet's crazy trains, first featured by Punch Magazine.

There is a replica of Lloyd's Coffeehouse, Big Ben (by recording) booms out the hours and a typical British country house, with more than a million dollars worth of antique furnishings is on show.

The post office is exhibiting the Penny Black, the first postage stamp in history and other rare stamps and the Royal Mint is turning out commemorative medallions on one of the machines which in half-crowns.

Britain boasts that it is the finest show ever put on in the Coliseum. It is, in any case, a magnificent effort by hundreds of men and women from every corner of the United Kingdom. Many of them are getting their first look at America, and are successful at making friends and influencing people.

Passed as an emergency ordinance was the issuance of a $3,296 in bonds to pay the balance of the street improvements to Highland Ave., Penn Ave. and an alley running between State St. and Pershing St. just east of Lincoln Ave.

A petition from 13 property owners in the vicinity of Monroe St. between Pershing and Maple Sts. was received, asking that half a street running between Pershing and Maple and being the east end of Monroe St. be vacated. It was noted half the street was dedicated in anticipation of the other half also being dedicated. However, the second half never was made a public street.

Seeks Garbage Contract

The B & W Sanitation Co. of Greenford submitted a letter to Council, asking to take over the garbage disposal and land fill obligations of the city. The letter stated the firm has a 112-acre landfill on Rt. 165 and that it had sufficient equipment to handle the city. The letter was referred to the garbage committee.

Aubrey Hayes, superintendent of utilities, made a report on a recent meeting he attended in Columbus. He was congratulated by Council on an award he received.

Rusty Tomlinson, director of recreation, reported that the playgrounds were due to open for the summer program June 27.

A proposal to create a parking lot on the site now occupied by the Knights of Pythias Hall was turned over to the safety committee.

The Test For Japan's Democracy

Although ratification of the new mutual security treaty with the United States has been virtually completed, the real test of Japan's democratic stature is yet to come. In a way, Americans are as involved indirectly as the Japanese are directly.

Having vanquished the military lords who led Japan into war, the United States set out to "democratize" the Japanese by showing them the suicide mistakes of the warlords and the economic, political and social advantages of peaceful freedom. So successful was the effort that American policy for a decade has been to forgive and forget the treachery which Japan perpetrated at Pearl Harbor.

BUT WAS the democratization too successful? Some pundits have said it was, meaning that the circumstances which permitted the leftist minorities to bring Japanese government to a standstill for months stem from policies laid down during the U.S. occupation.

These include: the distrust of anything military, which the leftists exploited in fighting the new U.S. treaty, and the decentralized structure of the police system, which made it virtually impossible for the government to muster the forces to control adequately the demonstrating mobs.

Now it is generally agreed that some changes must be made to give future Japanese governments at least an even break in protecting themselves against the leftist onslaughts, which can be expected to continue as Peiping and Moscow seek to broaden their foothold in the Far East by advancing on Tokyo.

Affecting such changes will necessitate a reliance upon public reaction to the disruptive tactics of the Communists and the Socialists during the last few months. And therein lies the new test of Japan's democratic stature.

Fears already have been expressed inside and outside Japan that the extreme right will exploit that public reaction to lure the Japanese into another wave of militarism. In practice, there is not much difference between the extreme left, whose threat is still not entirely dissipated, and the extreme right that poses a new threat. They both think in extremes, use extreme methods, will go to extreme lengths to foist their minority will upon the majority of the Japanese.

Their presence in a democracy is not peculiar to Japan. Extremists are found wherever people live together, and the only way democracy can survive is to be dynamic, thriving, ever on the alert for threats against it.

DEMOCRACY, IN SHORT, must steer a course between the extremes, strong enough to keep the majority's will in force, weak enough to permit legitimate minorities to exert their influence by legitimate means.

It is not an easy thing to do. Many a promising democratic state has foundered on the hazardous course and gone down in a sea of extremism. Even the most mature, successful democracies find the going difficult at times.

There is no hard-and-fast rule, no pat formula that will always work. It depends upon how the wind is blowing and how big the swells are.

The United States could teach the Japanese to want democracy, but it could not, and cannot now, teach them exactly how to preserve it. The latter depends upon the maturity of the Japanese as a democratic people.

The test of that maturity is coming.

Rule of Law Must Prevail

With all due respect for and sympathy with Israel's feelings toward Adolf Eichmann, we believe Argentina has a valid complaint about the manner in which the accused Nazi executioner was taken into custody and removed to the Jewish state to stand trial.

The Latin American country's argument is that the unilateral action of Israeli agents in taking Eichmann from Argentina is a violation of the International Genocide Convention, to which both nations are parties.

Under the convention's rules, Argentina argues, Israel should have asked for the arrest and extradition of the wanted man so he could be tried either in Germany, where his crimes were committed, or by an international court.

This argument does not claim that Eichmann is innocent. It does not dispute Israel's desire to bring him to justice for his role in the murder of an estimated six million Jews during the Nazi regime in Germany.

It does assert that if nations are going to work out their problems according to the rule of law, they must apply the principle of law to all their dealings. Acceptance of the international rule of law demands first that nations abide by the terms of international agreements they sign.

The situation is comparable to many that arise within the United States. When one state wants a criminal in another state, it does not simply go and get him. It asks the officials of the second state to arrest him and give it permission to assume custody.

This system involves reciprocal agreements which both protect each state's sovereignty and permit cooperation between them to serve law, order and justice.

Argentina is concerned about the insult to its sovereignty implied in Israel's violation of the international convention it had agreed to. But other nations of the world are more concerned about the setback to efforts to establish the rule of law.

It will be unfortunate if Israel's impulsiveness creates an international issue that overshadows the mending out of justice due to Adolf Eichmann.

Eyes Right

It has long been accepted that all babies are born with blue eyes.

Now a British doctor says his observations indicate that most senior politicians have blue eyes.

This may explain why many a father thinks his newborn son may grow up to be president.

An orchestra leader says the concertina is the greatest of all musical instruments. It's all according to how you look at it.

Once Over

"Log cabin to White House" slogan, once so powerful in campaigns now belongs with dead past and Horatio Alger would do better today if he started at the top instead of the bottom.

"There isn't a candidate for the presidential nomination who knew the 'other side of the tracks,' shined shoes, peddled papers or went around with the seat of his pants patched.

"The public is no longer scored by millionaires who have had it easy. If slogan routine is to be used at all in 1960 a new set-up will be needed.

"For Dick Nixon, who once worked at a grocery-gasoline station in Whittier, Calif.: 'From the gas-pumps of Whittier to the steering wheel of U.S.A.'"

"Put a man in the White House who knows his groceries!"

"He began cleaning windshields and can help Uncle Sam see ahead."

Nelson Rockefeller is in tough spot but could use these:

"From the Manor House to the Top Banana House."

"Choose a man who put Croesus down for an eight count and held Mammon to a draw."

"From feathered nest and silver spoon to hair shirt and guaranteed headache!"

"Support Rockefeller. He made journey from Golden Calf to Hectic Elephant House."

By H. I. Phillips

"From El Dorado and Shangri-la to Albany and Washington (with no gas or oil problem)."

For Lyndon Johnson: "Put a Texan in the White House and get the right steer."

How about Jack Kennedy? Try these on for size: "From the lap of luxury to the toughest job on earth."

"Fight for Kennedy. He overcame the burden of an easy life and family fortune." "From the cradle of wealth to the rocks of the Potomac!"

For Stevenson: "The man with a quip on his shoulder."

WHO REMEMBERS "Yes, We Have No Bananas," one of the greatest Tin Pan Alley tunes of '20s? Frank Silver, co-author with Irving Cohn of the song, died the other day at 58. He was around 21 when he wrote it. Song was based on a famous saying in T. A. Dorgan (Tad) cartoons.

Jake LaMotta before Senate committee admitted throwing a fight 13 years ago. Was committee conducting a probe or a memory test?

Mr. Nixon has come out with a book giving his views on national and international problems. Wonder if he sent one to Gov. Rockefeller with flyleaf inscription, "To Nelson, without whom this book would never have had such publicity."

Slaughter on Quemoy

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Is the West Really Dedicated to Humanity?

Human beings were actually slaughtered. The lives of innocent persons were crushed out by artillery shells. They were not Europeans or Americans. They were Chinese. Does this make a difference?

There are no page advertisements in the metropolitan papers signed with the names of prominent persons denouncing such inhumanity.

There are no petitions proclaimed by organizations such as cry out against nuclear tests—usually on the basis of humane considerations.

The families on the 14 tiny islands of the Quemoy group were terrorized by 174,000 shells—an all-time record in the Formosa Strait hostilities.

In fact, in three hours of the two days the Communists fired more shells than they did in the first two weeks of the 1958 crisis.

Yet the Communist government in Peiping, which undertook the bombardment solely as a gesture of hostility toward President Eisenhower and the United States, seems to be getting away with its barbaric act.

Those British newspapers, for instance, which heaped coals of criticism on President Eisenhower for going to the Far East have not denounced the Red China government for its wanton behavior.

One reason perhaps is that the British have extended diplomatic recognition to the Red China government. They did so largely to protect their commercial interests in Hong Kong.

IN THIS COUNTRY the pressure for recognition of the Peiping regime comes from the so-called "liberals" led by Adlai Stevenson, Democrat.

Sen. Kennedy, (D-Mass.), has indicated his belief that some understanding should be reached with the Red China government. To do so means abandonment of the cause of freedom in the Far East. It means the certain collapse of Korea and Formosa.

The Nationalist government on Formosa is a symbol of freedom, yet "liberal" influence today is exerted toward breaking down this bastion of Western strength.

Recently the Korean government has been weakened and so has the Turkish government.

There is a chance now, too, that the Japanese government will be torn by strife from within and will be a victim more and more of Communist infiltration.

When the Red Chinese began to shell the Quemoy Islands and brazenly announced that they were doing it as a gesture of "contempt and scorn" for President Eisenhower—as the Peiping radio declared—it might have been supposed that the free world would react to such a maneuver with expressions of horror and disgust. President Eisenhower referred to the shelling when he spoke in Formosa. He regarded the action as cruel and barbaric and said that it showed the typical Communist "disregard of human lives," and added: "I would think world opinion would characterize it as a deliberate and aggressive act."

Why, it may be respectfully asked, has there not been official condemnation from the governments at Paris and London?

Curiously enough, when a few persons were killed in South Africa due to the panic that seized the police in trying to quell a so-called "non-violent" demonstration, the governments in Europe and in other countries, especially in Asia, immediately expressed their disapproval in no uncertain terms.

Will any government in Southeast Asia now denounce the Red Chinese for what they have just done in Quemoy?

THE WESTERN ALLIES do not appear today to be united on Eastern policy.

The United States bore the brunt of the resistance to the Communist invasion of Korea, even though the fighting was done in the name of the United Nations.

It seems incredible that, even though the U.N. passed a resolution condemning Red China as an aggressor in Korea, there are so many governments inside the U.N. today ready and willing to reward the aggressor by ousting the Nationalist government on Formosa and giving the China seat in the U.N. to the Red regime.

The usual argument made—and it has lately been parroted by the misguided Gen. Montgomery—is that "China is a fact."

So was Nazi Germany a fact, but the rest of the world recognized and carried on diplomatic relations with the Polish government in exile, the Czech government in exile, and the Hungarian government in exile—all these governments being stationed in London—during World War II.

The Korean War isn't ended yet. An armistice has been signed but no peace treaty.

The terms of the armistice are being repeatedly violated by the Red Chinese.

When the appeasers start talking about recognizing Red China and when prominent Democrats exhibit friendliness toward the Communist regime in Red China, it is natural that the Peiping barbarians should take a chance and inflict a bombardment on the civilian population of the Quemoy Islands.

Maybe they think that, if the Eisenhower administration is replaced by a Democratic administration next January, there will be a tendency to "let bygones be bygones."

The Communists must wonder if the West is really as dedicated to the principles of humanity as it professes to be.

War Against Quality

By RAYMOND MOLEY

School administrators and government bureaucrats, who two years ago helped put through Congress the National Defense Education Act as a necessary response to the Sputnik challenge are now busily seeking to undermine its basic principle.

That principle was that the teaching of science, mathematics and other basic subjects should be strengthened.

A spokesman for the "comprehensive" high school, with plenty of electives which provide a cushion against hard work, recently in an address to the National War College undertook the rather pretentious job of proving that not only President Eisenhower but ex-President Hoover and Adm. Rickover simply do not know what they are talking about—presumably, since they are not alumni of Teachers College.

THEIR CRITIC was James E. Russell, secretary of the Educational Policies Committee of the National Education Association.

He scoffed at Mr. Hoover, whose distinction as an engineer needs no defense, by saying that "he did not have or did not seek, the professional background to interpret the data he used."

Apparently Hoover must go to an "educationalist" to teach him mathematics, even after spending a long lifetime in practical engineering over the world and in public service and affairs.

Russell then took on President Eisenhower who—as anyone who cares to read his biography in "Who's Who" may learn—took all the stiff educational courses that were available to an Army officer after his graduation from West Point.

Russell took a firm stand against the basic educational disciplines in this amazing statement:

"Far from raising the percentage of pupils who are involved in physics, I would lower it."

"Far from raising the percentage that takes foreign languages, I would make it a policy that no pupil should be permitted (noe permitted) to study the second year of a foreign language who has not demonstrated both talent and determination in the first year."

While U.S. Commissioner of Education Dethrick could not be expected to take a whack at his boss, the President, at least publicly, he commissioned himself to whittle Adm. Ryman G. Rickover down to the size of a mere dilettante so far as judging scientific capacity is concerned.

The admiral, as is well known, developed the atomic submarine for the Navy. His modest biography in "Who's Who" notes only one of the many distinctions that have come to him for his scientific achievements, "The Eggleston Medal, Columbia Engineering Alumni Association."

THE ADMIRAL'S alleged offense was that he deplored the practice of offering to immature high school students a glittering array of electives and then to expect them to choose for themselves.

Here is an issue between a professional educationalist and a man seasoned in wielding high administrative authority and in judging the quality of scientific work. Both have been in Russia.

Dethrick went over with a group of educators who were given the full treatment in a tour of the best show schools.

Rickover went over to judge the results of that education in scientific work. One judged by what went on in the schools; the other saw what the graduates were doing with their schooling.

Here is one vote for the admiral's point of view.

Rep. Hays and the $4,000

The following article by Don Oberdorfer and Walter Pincus, published in the Akron Beacon Journal June 5, 1959, is one in an exclusive series pinpointing Congressional laxity in spending of public funds. It is copyrighted by Knight Newspapers, Inc., and republished with permission of the Beacon Journal.

WASHINGTON — A controversial four-year-old committee which has been referred to on the floor of the House as "that junketeering organization" carries on some of the most unusual expense account practices in Congress.

The group is the House delegation to the NATO parliamentary conference. The delegation has a $15,000 annual budget.

Records in the House Disbursing Office, publicly available until officials locked and sealed them after finding newsmen checking into them last week, showed such spending and accounting practices as these:

Rep. Wayne Hays, Ohio Democrat, head of the House NATO delegation, drew $4,000 in cash advances from the NATO House fund between June 1958 and June 1959.

Nearly two years since that first "advance," Hays still has not accounted for any of the money to the House Disbursing Office.

Before the November trip, however, Hays drew another $2,000 from the House Disbursing Office. In addition to Hays, eight other Congressmen and three staff "volunteers" took the November trip, which Hays said cost $2,946. This was $98 more than he had left from advances drawn up to that time. He says he made up this difference from his own pocket.

In June 1959, Hays drew a third advance on House NATO funds, this time for $1,000.

This money, Hays said, was used to finance a trip to a meeting in London, attended by nine Congressmen and two staff members.

Exactly $1,000 was spent on this trip, Hays said.

OF THE $4,000 which Hays said was spent on the NATO meetings, $2,987.16 went for lodging, $160.84 for meals, $186 for incidentals and ground transportation and $200 for translators.

Hays did not show us, however, any receipts for these bills. The 52 trips which Hays took before the November trip, however, Hays drew another $2,000 from the House Disbursing Office.

In addition to Hays, eight other Congressmen and three staff "volunteers" took the November trip, which Hays said cost $2,946. This was $98 more than he had left from advances drawn up to that time. He says he made up this difference from his own pocket.

Silent Biographer

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — An office desk is the silent biographer of the man who works at it.

Most desk drawers contain files dealing with the firm's business. But there is also usually a drawer in which the man who works at the desk keeps personal belongings.

Over the years the contents of this drawer tell by their mere mute presence the whole drama of his life—his hopes, his problems, his failures and his victories.

When the man is 25, the personal drawer of his shiny new desk is nearly empty.

It contains the picture of a big-bosomed actress in a low-cut gown a razor so he can shave at the office after work and not have to go all the way home to get ready for his date, three cubes of sugar, a sheaf of letters from girl friends and an invitation to a cocktail party.

When the man is 35, his desk drawer mirrors his growing responsibilities.

It holds a picture of a sweet-faced young woman and two little girls in bathing suits, a packet of stomach mints, two packs of cigarettes, a cleaning rag to polish the top of his desk, and six sugar cubes—for coffee breaks.

When the man is 45, the desk drawer has much more to tell.

It holds a half-empty box of aspirin tablets, two rolls of stomach mints, four packages of cigarettes, nine match packets, a bottle of antacid pills, a cleaning rag, and 12 sugar cubes.

When a man is 55, the desk drawer gets really crowded.

It has a dozen kinds of pills, capsules, tablets and bottled medicines. There are two pipes, a pouch of tobacco, and a book on "How to Give up Cigarette Smoking."

There are letters from his wife who is visiting their first grandchild, letters from old friends trying to borrow money, a letter from the bank congratulating him on finally paying off the mortgage on his home and two notes from his boss bawling him out for indecision in settling a business matter.

At the bottom of the boss's notes the man has scribbled defiantly: "Who the hell does he think he is? I was running this job when he was in kneepants!"

Naturally the cleaning rag is still there—and 24 sugar cubes.

When the man reaches 65, the desk drawer is stuffed with the debris of 40 years.

Slowly, thoughtfully, the man arises tiredly, takes out the desk drawer and empties its entire contents into a wastebasket. He takes the cleaning rag, polishes the drawer, puts it back into the desk, tosses the time-soiled rag into the wastebasket.

He sits at the desk for a long moment, running his hand over its smooth top, then flicks away a last fleck of dust. He gets up, puts on his hat and coat and walks out the door forever.

And the desk stands ready and waiting to begin the long chronicle of another man's life in the office.

PLANE AIDS PATROL

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Using their own version of a "spy plane," the State Highway Patrol tapped 33 speeding motorists Tuesday on U.S. 40 near South Vienna. Highest speed recorded was 88 m.p.h. The legal limit is 60 m.p.h. Patrolmen in the plane use a stopwatch to time vehicles between special lines painted on the road. The technique is used in all parts of the state, the patrol said.

Beauty A LA MODE

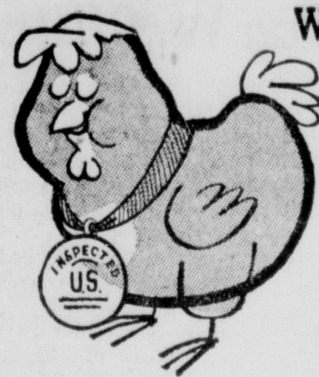

HATS AND HAIR

Women don't always "keep it under their hats" when it comes to hair styles. In fact there seems to be a friendly agreement between these feminine "decorations" to play each other up. When the hair styles soar upward the hats follow the lead as with pompadour styles and Merry Widow hats. When the "dos" go down and hug the head, so do the hats. One is reminded of the fashions of the roaring 20s. Hairdos and hats go hand in hand along the winding paths of fashion.

Regardless of the current fashions, your hair must have a good permanent for foundation. Don't delay a lovely, new wave.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Why in the world would guests who come to spend a few hours in a home be interested in what's in the medicine cabinet?

Several weeks ago I entertained some friends and one of the women apologized for breaking a jar of cold cream which was in the cabinet. She said: "I just opened the cabinet door and it fell out."

When I told my husband I could not understand why she had opened the cabinet door he said, "People ALWAYS do this and I will prove it to you." He rigged a little cellulose tape device on the cabinet door and showed me how to retape it after it had been detached.

Yesterday I had 12 women in for bridge. I checked the tape after each of eight women had been in the bathroom. To my horror I discovered the tape had been broken seven times! Can you tell me why this interest in other people's medicine cabinets? — DUMB-FOUNDED.

Dear Dumbfounded: Human beings are a complicated, unpredictable mixture of mysterious motivations. Why do they want the front of the bus, the back of the church and the middle of the road?

There are many reasons for opening a medicine cabinet in the home of a hostess. Most of them come under the heading of plain business.

One woman in 25 could be looking for aspirin. The other 24 are checking to see if it's orderly or if the family takes a lot of medicine and if so, what kind. Don't ask me why it should matter, it apparently does.

Generous Friend

Dear Ann: I have a girl friend who has a lot bigger allowance than mine (like four times as much). We are both 14 years old.

At the end of the week I'm broke so she insists on buying the tickets to the movie and then she treats me to a soda or hamburgers. She also pays the bus fare for both of us.

I don't want this charity drive to end our friendship because we get along great together. I'm uneasy about her spending money on me because I have no way of paying her back. Thank you. — TOB.

P.S.: I am a girl.

Dear Toby: I'm happy you added that P.S. I had you figured for a boy.

Cut out the domestic aid program and tell your friend you appreciate her generosity but you no longer can accept it. Plenty of interesting places are free. Let her know she doesn't have to buy your company.

Three Alternatives

Dear Ann: I married a man whose wife died six years ago. I think the world of him and we have been very happy together, except for one thing.

His daughter and her family will not come to visit us because this is the same house where she grew up and her mother died. We must call on them at their homes since they refuse to set foot in this house.

I am sick at heart over this and my husband knows it. He says to ignore it but I can't.

I'm sure he is as hurt as I am but he is a strong person and does not show it. What can I do?—N.A.

Dear N.A.: You can continue to punish yourself about something which is not your fault and which you cannot control or change.

Or you can be mature and accept the situation and continue to visit them.

The third alternative is to move into another house — although it hardly seems worth the trouble.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Man Fined $10 Makes Curious Legal History

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP)—The case of Carroll Mills made a curious kind of legal history today. He was fined $10 for being drunk, but it took a 12-page opinion and court decisions dating to the American Revolution to justify the fine.

East Liverpool police arrested Mills June 12 on an Ohio River bridge connecting Ohio and West Virginia.

Mills claimed Ohio lacked jurisdiction.

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff disagreed in a 12-page document which quoted U.S. Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes among others. The judge held that East Liverpool police have a clear cut right to make arrests on the river opposite the city.

Wrote the judge: Conceding that the arrest was made in midair rather than on the waters of the Ohio, the cities in this modern age have a right to legislate over air space over their territory.

BULLET KILLS YOUTH

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP)—David Dolan, 13, of nearby Buffalo, fired a gun into a pond. The bullet ricocheted off the water and hit Bobby Scrappansky, 16, of Buffalo, in the chest, killing him.

That's what officials said happened Tuesday as they ruled the death at Black Pond accidental.

HOLDS RATE HIKE HEARING COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Utilities Commission rehearing of a rate increase application by Cincinnati Gas and Electric Co. opened Tuesday with testimony by Dr. Robert Eisner, professor of economics at Northwestern University. In the original hearing the company received a rate increase of $1,567,000 annually. The company, which had asked for a $2,238,000 annual increase, then filed for a rehearing.

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

They're a dashing lot—those commercial aviators—but if they ever handled their aircraft as they handle their personal labor relations, they'd never get off the ground.

In a monumental pet peeve last week they went in for direct labor action and cost Eastern Air Lines more than 7½ million dollars, and inconvenienced more than 100,000 passengers. They put the public and the air transport industry right in the middle of their drive to take from the government the right to decide what is air safety.

They threatened to disrupt the entire airline industry which now has a billion dollar a year payroll and which last year marked up a record 7,085,657 take-offs and landings at the 222 U.S. airports equipped with traffic control service.

There's increasing take-off and landing speed at these air terminals but with comforting safety.

Gen. Elwood Quesada, director of the Federal Aviation Agency, wants to keep it that way. Thus he ruled that no pilot should handle a jet after 60 years of age and that no pilot should leave the jet controls to talk to passengers or for meals and that pilots would have to undergo regular physical examinations.

THEN LAST FALL the FAA director had his people survey the big jets for the best vantage point for his inspectors.

After a month, Quesada's investigators told him no inspector could observe adequately unless he was in the "third seat" behind the captain.

This seat swings towards the middle of the cockpit. A man in it could see not only the route but the full set of panel controls and instruments.

Eastern then removed a small coat room used by the flying personnel. A fourth seat was put in. Thus the captain and co-pilot could sit up front in a row.

Behind the chief pilot could sit the inspector and behind him a third pilot. The inspector, it should be noted, always is a qualified jet pilot himself.

There have been thousands of inspections since Kitty Hawk became a monument. But some pencil work shows that these are spot checks and run only one-fifth of one per cent of all flights. This includes all inaugural flights.

Thus the FAA inspector mathematically couldn't get into the commercial pilot's hair.

Furthermore, the inspector observes the take-off and the route followed. But once the plane has zipped through crowded aerial lanes or is out over water, the inspector generally moves back to another seat or even into the passenger cabin.

If there is any emergency while the inspector rides the third seat, the captain, always supreme commander aloft, outranks the government man.

The captain can swiftly order the inspector out of the seat and swing the spare pilot from No. 4 to No. 3 spot in split seconds.

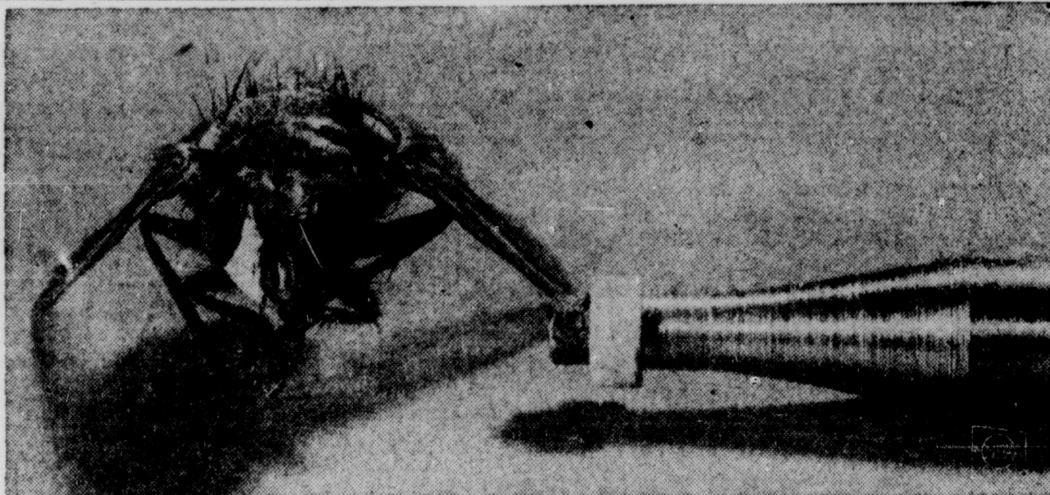

Yet the Eastern pilots, in mysterious phone calls and with messages from their hiding places, sent word last week that it was unsafe to ride with the inspectors. I learned that the big jets, however, were designed and certified for only two pilots.

THAT'S ALL that Quesada requires. The third pilot never does any actual flying. Only some radio communications and some paper work.

Technicians report that this can be done from any seat, for the extra pilot does not touch any controls.

Yet using this third man theme Eastern Air Line's skippers said it was unsafe and went on a sick strike.

Some 1,300 strikers did this with-

SMALL AS A FLY'S EYE—The smallest grinding wheel ever made commercially is almost as tiny as the eye of a house fly. The little abrasive wheel, developed by Bay State company in Westboro, Mass., will be used to grind miniature ball bearings which go into the production of cameras, tape-recorders, missile guidance systems and other microminiature instruments.

out notice, beginning midnight, June 10. Left with a dwindling fleet, Eastern had to attempt to shift some 30,000 reservations a day because of the "wildcat" strike.

The airline began losing some $620,000 a day in gross revenue. The other money lost went for continued salaries to the "sick" pilots and the stranded crews. There were no layoffs.

The entire industry watched. If the sick men threw up a picket line, all seven air transport unions would strike in sympathy. Hundreds of millions would then be lost. Never could there be worse public relations for the pilots or for labor itself.

It's this sort of direct action which will speed the day of compulsory arbitration of labor disputes.

AUTO DEALERS CITED
FREMONT, Ohio (AP)—Three Sandusky County auto dealers have been arraigned in local courts for failing to surrender titles for junked motor vehicles. It is part of a state-wide crackdown by the Ohio Highway Patrol.

Fined $25 each in Bellevue Municipal Court were two Bellevue dealers. One from Clyde was fined $200 in county court there.

The Doctor Says

By HAROLD THOMAS HYMAN, M.D.

Each Person Can Help Cut Death Toll

If you're a regular viewer of Westerns, you know what type casting is. You don't need a score card to tell who's the "good guy" and who's the "bad one."

Dr. H. T. Hyman

And you probably know, too that every once in a while a director will pull a switch and do what's called "offbeat" casting by having the actor who looks like the "good guy" turn out to be the villain.

Today I'm going to give you an example of "offbeat" medical casting that will surprise you more than anything you will see in the wildest Western.

For the villain of today's piece is the newborn infant!

LET ME GIVE YOU the details as they have just been reported by Doctors Valerie Hurst and Moses Grossman of the University of California's Medical Center in the New England Journal of Medicine.

It seems there was an epidemic of a skin infection (impetigo) in the center's nursery. During the period of the epidemic, some 278 infants were born in the nursery. Some developed impetigo. Others did not.

After a lapse of 18 months, an unselected group of 94 of the families of the babies were visited and tests were done to determine how many of the infants, their parents and their brothers and sisters carried the staphylococcus bug that was responsible for the epidemic of impetigo.

TO THE SURPRISE of investigators, about one-third of the infants (now 18 months old) still carried the staph in their noses, armpits, throats or groins.

And to their greater surprise, fewer than half of these "carriers" had actually been afflicted with impetigo. The remainder were what is called "asymptomatic carriers."

When the investigators pursued their inquiry further, they made these startling discoveries:

1. Approximately 10 per cent of the members of the family carried the staph in their noses or throats. That is to say they, too, were asymptomatic carriers.

2. Just under half of the babies had suffered some sort of staph infection in the 18 months that elapsed following their discharge from the nursery.

3. ONE MOTHER in each group of five had also suffered a staph infection during this same 18-month period. Most of these infections were in the skin (boils and carbuncles). But some involved the breasts.

4. One father in each group of 10 had also suffered from boils or carbuncles and there was a single case of pneumonia that almost ended fatally.

5. One brother or sister in each group of eight was also infected in the manner of the parents, bringing the total number of staph infections to 82 over the 18-month period.

It takes a wide stretch of the imagination to picture a newborn baby as the villain in any life situation. But facts are facts. And the lesson to be learned is as obvious as the angelic expression on any infant's face.

FAIR SCHEDULES EXHIBIT
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio State Fair management has announced that the Atomic Energy Commission's largest traveling exhibit, "You and the Atom," will be displayed during the fair Aug. 26 through Sept. 2.

The AEC exhibit, occupying 5,000 feet of floor space, will have up-to-date information on the nation's nuclear energy programs in terms understandable to the layman. Besides explaining peaceful uses of atomic energy, the display will show how radioisotopes are used in agriculture, medicine, industry and research.

HEARING ON RATE INCREASE
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A public hearing has been scheduled in Cincinnati on July 11 or after on a proposed 28 per cent increase in Blue Cross hospital rates for 15 counties in southwestern Ohio. State Insurance Supt. Edward A. Stowell estimated the increase, if approved, would boost payments in the area—which includes Cincinnati and Dayton—by more than 10 million dollars annually. Stowell says he wants to determine whether the increases asked by Hospital Care Corp. are in excess of the general rise in living costs.

Demonstrations will be given at the next meeting in the home of Ronald Wilhelm of RD 1, Leetonia.

FILE $10,000 SUIT
LISBON — A suit for $10,000 damages allegedly stemming from a traffic mishap was filed in the Common Pleas Court Tuesday by George R. and Irene Boyd of Wellsville RD 1.

Ray Moulder and the Carrier Corporation of Canton were named defendants.

The Boyds claim that on July 7, 1959, a company truck ran off the highway into their hay field and upset, spilling fuel oil on their hay field and into a spring and a creek on their farm.

Marks Landing Wraps Up First Round Title In Class A

Wins 4-1 Over Carl's Tavern

Lincoln Machine Rips Porter Co. 9-0

By DICK BRAUTIGAM
Marks Landing wrapped up the first round title in the City Class A Softball League by pouncing out a 4-1 decision over Carl's Tavern Tuesday night at Kelley Field.
Judge Guiler hurled a one-hit shutout for Lincoln Machine as that club clinched second place with a 9-0 win over H. K. Porter Co. In the other Class A game played last night.
By winning, Marks turned back a bid by Carl's Tavern for a share of the league title. Carl's went into the fray last night with a 6-2 record while Marks had a 7-1 mark. The defeat dropped Carl's to third place behind Lincoln Machine who closed the round with a 7-2 record.

MARKS COLLECTED only seven hits off Gerry Bryson but bunched five of them in the second and third innings when it scored all four runs. Consecutive singles by Weyant, Guthrie and Huffman and an infield error sent home two runs in the second frame.
Singles by Hanna and King, Dave Drakulich's sacrifice fly and another error plated two more runs in the third.

Carl's tallied its only marker in the fifth on a two-out single by Reisinger two walks and a hit batsman.
Logue pitched a four-hitter for Marks, striking out seven and walking five. Bryson was charged with the defeat although he gave up only one earned run. His team committed five errors.

A FOURTH inning double by Jackson of H. K. Porter Co. spoiled the no-hit bid of Lincoln Machine's Judge Guiler. Guiler walked two batters and faced only 17 men in the five inning fray. One of the men who walked was eliminated by a game-ending double play.

Not only was Guiler the pitching star last night but he also was carrying a hot bat. He unloaded a pair of home runs and a single in three trips to the plate. Miller and Stanley each chipped in with two hits for Lincoln Machine.

Upper Turn

By JIMMY DEMARET

The wrists break in the backstroke and as the putt is struck. This permits the hands, with their vastly superior instincts, to impart all the touch at the player's command.

The entire upper part of the body is allowed to turn, as indicated in the accompanying illustration, by way of assisting the easy finish of the follow through.

As I point out in my Golf-To-Music Lesson album, notice how the wrists and hands, with complete freedom in the stroking, allow the putter to pass beyond and into the follow through. The wrists break to allow this passing.

Yet this is not wrist putting in the strict sense of the word. I recommend that the knees, hips, arms and shoulders participate as need be.

Complete Freedom. NEXT: The putting follow through.

Giants Lose Pair to Braves

Pirates Nip Cards, Phillies Beat Cubs

By The Associated Press
The diagnosis was wrong. Those San Francisco Giants weren't suffering from Rigney-moritis after all.

If owner Horace Stoneham hoped to jog his club back to life when he replaced manager Bill Rigney with head scout Tom (Clancy) Sheehan last weekend, he neglected to let the Giants in on his motive. They've looked just as bad for Sheehan as they did for Rigney—only quicker.

It took the Giants 56 games under Rig to lose three in a row this season, but they matched that slump in just four games under Clancy. They tumbled 5½ games off the pace in the National League race in a two-night doubleheader loss at Milwaukee Tuesday night.

The sweep, 9-6 and 2-1 in 12 innings, moved the second-place Braves within 3½ games of front-running Pittsburgh. The Pirates defeated St. Louis 3-2 as reliever Roy Face saved Vern Law's 11th victory, tops in the majors.

Cincinnati cracked Los Angeles 6-4. Last-place Philadelphia beat Chicago's Cubs 7-6 in 13 innings and led 7-5 in the second game of the two-night pair when the current suspended play after eight innings.

Sheehan ironically, has followed the same pattern that made Rigney bait for second guesses—shifting Orlando Cepeda from first back to the outfield and using starting pitchers as relievers.

Willie Mays, Cepeda and pinch-hitter Dale Long each homered in the opener—but Mike McCormick and relievers Billy O'Dell and Billy Loes gave up just as many to the Braves' Del Crandall, Hank Aaron and Joe Adcock. Adcock's two-run shot off Loes that clinched it as Milwaukee came from behind with four runs in the fifth and hung the loss on O'Dell (2-7).

In the second game, Sheehan called on ace starter Sam Jones for relief in the 12th and the Braves tagged Sad Sam (9-6) with the loss. Al Spangler's one-out last single, a wild pitch, a walk and Red Schoendienst's single did it. Bob Buhl (7-3) won it with three innings of shutout relief.

The Pirates, like the Braves, gained their seventh victory in eight games after scoring twice in the fifth against Bob Gibson (0-1). Singles by Bill Mazerowski, Bill Virdon and Dick Groat, who also knocked in a third-inning did the job. Face then saved it, coming on with a run home and men on second and first with none out in the ninth.

The relief ace picked off pinch-runner Curt Simmons at second and then struck out Daryl Spencer and pinch-hitter Stan Musial.

A two-run homer by Wally Post, just returned to the Reds, beat the Dodgers and southpaw Johnny Podres (6-6) in the fifth inning. Bob Purkey (6-3) was the winner. He gave up two-run homers by Norm Larker and John Roseboro in the sixth. Larker, 4-for-4, took over the NL batting lead with a .344 average.

Ernie Banks of the Cubs jumped into the major league home run lead by hitting his 19th and 20th in the first game. A two-out single by Tony Curry decided it and defeated reliever Glen Hobbie (6-9).

The second game, to be completed tonight, was played under protest by the Cubs when the Phils took the lead with two unearned runs in the fifth. Cub Manager Lou Boudreau protested when Tony Gonzalez was allowed to score from first after a fan picked up a wild peg by Chicago second baseman Don Zimmer.

Tribe Shades Senators 5-4 On Bats of Kuenn, Temple

Grant Wins 13th Against Nats

Victory Indians' 3rd In Last 11

CLEVELAND (AP)—Now that their leg injuries are healed, two "old pros" may be set to get the Cleveland Indians on the right foot again.

With Harvey Kuenn and Johnny Temple delivering in accustomed style, the Indians shaded the Washington Senators 5-4 Tuesday night. Kuenn had three hits, including a two-run homer in the first inning. Temple made two hits, one of them a six-inning double which drove in the tying and winning runs.

That uprising made Jim (Mudcat) Grant the winning pitcher against the Senators for the 13th straight time in his major league career. Against the rest of the league, Grant has only a 12-19 mark.

But Grant was far from effective against his cousins as they whacked him for three home runs and had him down 4-3 when he was removed for a pinch-hitter in the sixth. After the Indians went ahead by a run, Johnny Klippstein came on and hurled three scoreless innings to save Grant's triumph.

Kuenn, moving up in the averages with 7-for-10 in his last three games, now is hitting at .292. Temple, just returning to his usual second base spot, is hitting only .257.

The Indians broke on top in the first inning when Temple singled and Kuenn powered the ball over the left field fence for his third homer of the season.

The Senators' Dan Doherty cracked a solo blast in the second inning. After the Indians added another run in the fourth on singles by Johnny Romano and Woodie Held and a sacrifice fly by Grant, the Senators scored a run in the fifth on pitcher Pedro Ramos' homer.

Jim Lemon's single and Earl Battey's home run in the sixth put Washington in front 4-3.

But in their half of the inning the Indians scored twice on a walk to Romano, a single by Held and Temple's double inside the third base line.

Incidentally, Romano had three hits and Held a pair of singles. But Vic Power stretched his hitless string through 21 at bats. Jimmy Piersall was 0-for-5 and Tito Francona failed to get on in four at bats.

Ted Bowsfield (2-2) pitches for Cleveland tonight against Bill Fischer (2-2) in the middle game of the three-game series. The Indians, winning only their third game in the last 11, remain in third place 3 games behind the league-leading New York Yankees.

No Records Listed for 12 Species of Ohio Fish

Head for the nearest lake or stream, you Ohio anglers!

According to the latest revised list of record Ohio fish prepared by the Ohio Record Fish Committee of the Outdoor Writers of Ohio, there are 12 species for which there are no records. Any substantiated large catch for one of these species may out the fisherman's name in the record book.

Best bets among the open classes are black, brown and yellow bullheads and sunfish. Other species for which no record exists include the dogfish, yellow catfish, three species of gar fish, paddlefish, white perch and chain pickerel.

Present records of the 33 classes most likely to be broken are carp, black crappie and muskie.

There are lots of chances to get your name in the fish record books in Ohio. Here's how to go about it if you catch prospective record fish:

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By RUFUS LIDE

It looks as though we are going to have a 15-day trapping season on beavers in Columbiana, Mahoning and Ashtabula counties.

This will please the trappers, delight the land owners who have had so much trouble with nuisance beavers and take an unnecessary responsibility off the game protectors' shoulders.

Some days I can get nothing more done than check out complaints from various land owners and the township trustees where beavers are flooding pasture and crop lands or damming up culverts on township roads.

There is no "fool-proof" method of removing beavers alive. It costs the state a lot of money to send in a professional trapper, although this has been going on in Columbiana County for about a week.

I DO NOT KNOW at this time how many beavers the trapper caught but I do know the ones captured were taken to points in southeast Ohio down in the hilly section where they are the least likely to become a nuisance.

According to plans now in the making, a trapper will be allowed to take two beavers with the written permission of the land owner. The question will come up, "What if I catch three beavers?"

The answer to that will be you better not set more than two traps. If you get one then use only one trap to get the other one. There will be no acceptable excuse for trapping more than two beavers, as the law will most likely read.

BEAVERS TRAPPED in Pennsylvania averaged $10 per pelt.

Anyone who has never skinned a beaver will have to learn to skin them the right way or lose money. Another thing to watch out for is be careful who you sell your pelts to. Don't accept a fur buyers' remark, "these Ohio beavers are not as good as the Pennsylvania beavers so they are worth less."

Another thing about skinning a beaver, the hide has to be cut every inch of the way. You cannot separate the pelt from the carcass by pulling. It is a hard job to skin a beaver and you will earn the $10.

Tigers Battered 6-0 by Yanks

Chisox Nip Orioles, A's Pound Red Sox

By The Associated Press Mickey Mantle's hobbled but hammerin'. Whitey Ford's no longer a question mark and the New York Yankees have junked Frank Lary's jinx for a half-game lead that's bigger than it looks in the American League pennant race.

The Mick, limping on bum legs, drove in three runs with a pair of homers in support of Ford's four-hit shutout for a 6-0 job on the Tigers and Lary at Detroit Tuesday night. It was the first victory in almost a month for Ford, who had lost three in a row for only the second time in his nine-year career.

It also was the Yankees' second victory of the year over Lary—a right-hander they had managed to beat just twice in 14 decisions over two seasons.

While the Yankees won their fifth in a row, the Chicago White Sox clipped second-place Baltimore 4-3. Cleveland defeated Washington 5-4 and Kansas City cracked Boston 11-7, despite two home runs and four RBI by Ted Williams.

In the National League, Pittsburgh beat St. Louis 3-2 but the Pirates' lead was trimmed to 3½ games by second-place Milwaukee. The Braves swept a twin-night doubleheader from San Francisco, 9-6 and 2-1 in 12 innings. Cincinnati rapped Los Angeles 6-4. Philadelphia defeated Chicago's Cubs 7-6 in 13 innings and led 7-5 in the second game of the twin-night pair when it was halted by curfew after eight innings.

Ford (3-5), the stubby southpaw charged with the Yankees' only two losses in 17 games, bounced back by giving up nothing but singles while extending the Tigers' scoreless slump through 27 innings.

Lary (6-7), now 22-8 lifetime against the Yanks, was beaten in the fourth when Roger Maris tripled and came in on a wild pitch. He gave up 11 of New York's 14 hits, including both of Mantle's shots.

The White Sox, after losing four in a row, jumped past Detroit into fourth place on a tie-breaking home run by Jim Landis in the ninth. Landis, tagging reliever Chuck Estrada (6-3) with the defeat, also drove in a second-inning run and nailed a Baltimore runner at the plate with a peg from center field. Frank Baumann (4-3) won it in relief.

A two-out, two-run double by Johnny Temple in the sixth brought the Indians from behind against Washington's Pedro Ramos (3-9). Mudcat Grant (5-2), padded his career record over the nats to 13-0, but needed Johnny Klippstein's three innings of shutout relief.

Southpaw Bud Daley (10-2), the AL's top winner, took his ninth in a row with relief help from Bob Trowbridge in a four-run Boston eighth. Jerry Casale (2-7) dropped his seventh straight failing to get a man out in a five-run first.

Jerry Lumpe and Marv Throneberry homered for the A's. Williams, hitting eight home runs in two weeks, now has 11 for the year and a career total of 503.

Tax Bite May Prevent Another Bout Soon

Patterson, Johansson Each Earn Million Dollars From Title Fight

NEW YORK (AP)—Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson have a problem that should happen to everyone. They would like to fight again within 90 days and earn maybe a million bucks apiece. But they may not be able to afford it this year because of the tremendous tax bite.

The two young heavyweights, recrowned champion Patterson, and dethroned Johansson, may have earned record purses of a million dollars each for their second fight Monday night.

So the answer to whether there will be a rubber match this year most likely will be furnished by their lawyers and financial advisers.

The explosive fight, in which Patterson regained the title by flattening the Swede in the fifth round, lured 31,892 paying fans and $824,891 to the Polo Grounds. Irving Kahn, the president of TelePrompTer which handled the closed circuit television, movies and radio, said the extras will gross about $3,000,000. Of this, he said optimistically, the fighters should collect between $800,000 and $900,000 each in addition to $175,000 each from the gate receipts. Gene Tunney set an all-time high of $990,445 for his second fight with Jack Dempsey at Chicago in 1927, an era in which the tax bite was mild compared to what it is today.

At separate press conferences Tuesday, Johansson and Patterson said they would like the third fight within 90 days. Naturally the promoting Feature Sports, Inc., was more than anxious to oblige.

Patterson, elated at becoming the first former heavyweight king to regain the crown, said he had a contract for a third fight with Ingo and intended to fulfill it.

"If I should win," he said, "I would like to negotiate with other contenders, possibly (Sonny) Liston.

Liston, the hottest and heaviest hitter among the contenders, meets Zora Folley of Chandler, Ariz., at Denver July 18. Liston is from Philadelphia.

"I want the return," said Johansson, 27, who suffered the first defeat of his pro career. "Patterson was fresher and stronger this time. He caught me with a good punch and that was that. Maybe next time it will be different.

I always said anything can happen in a fight. This time it happened the better for him. The next time it can be my turn."

What did he think he did wrong in the fifth round when he was knocked down twice by left hooks, the last time for the count?

"I think I was a little low (meaning with his hands)," he said. "I must have thought he was going to the body. And I kept my chin up a little high."

Why didn't he storm after Patterson in the second round when he appeared to have hurt Floyd with a high right to the head?

"He was just trying to look bad," said Ingo. (Patterson confirmed this). "I was pretty sure he was not too bad and was playing that he was hurt bad. I thought I would have plenty of time to get him in a long fight."

Of this moment, Patterson said "It did hurt but not as much as it looked. I hoped he would come charging in like he did in the first fight (when Johansson stopped him in the third round). Unfortunately, he didn't."

Asked if he thought the public wanted a third fight, Patterson said: "I think so, if you look at it this way. In the first fight I definitely was overconfident from what had read. I was surprised. In the second fight Ingemar more or less underestimated me because things had been so easy for him. The third should decide the championship."

Lane Impressed With Bonus Baby

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sam McDowell, the Cleveland Indians' $75,000 bonus baby from Pittsburgh, took a workout at Municipal Stadium Tuesday and quickly impressed General Manager Frank Lane.

"Sam has the fast ball, but he also has a good curve," explained Lane. "I like to see that. You find a lot of young pitchers with good fast balls. Many of them don't have the loose wrist you need to snap off a curve."

McDowell, a 6-foot-5 left-hander, said he hopes to be back with the Indians in two or three years. "If hard work helps I might make it sooner."

Sam said he will return to Pittsburgh today, pack his bags and report to Cleveland's Lakeland farm club in the Class D Florida State League Monday.

"I'm anxious to get going and start getting that experience I need," he explained. "I plan to play winter baseball, too. That may speed things up a bit."

McDowell, 17, signed with the Indians last week.

Merchants Blow Lead, Lose 6-3

Youngstown Team Wins In Penn-Ohio

The Salem Merchants fell apart defensively in the final two innings and blew a 6-3 Penn-Ohio League softball game to Youngstown Local 1331 Tuesday night at Kelley Field.

Leading 3-0 after five innings, Salem gave up four runs in the sixth and two more in the seventh to let the victory slip away.

Salem Pitcher Glenn Mercer had a one-hitter going until the sixth when he suddenly went wild. He walked the first two men up in the sixth, then loaded the bases by hitting a batter. Two infield errors and a pinch hit single by Kolby played four runs for Youngstown.

Two hits and two more infield errors let another pair of runs come home in the seventh.

Mercer was sharp in the early innings. He retired the first nine men to face him and didn't allow a batter to reach base safely until Carroll led off the fourth with a walk. Youngstown's first hit was a harmless single in the fifth inning.

Salem outthrew Youngstown 7-4. The locals broke a scoreless tie with three runs in the fifth inning.

KEN SCHOEN opened the fifth with a triple and came home with the first run of the game on Dick Youngpeter's single. Gerry Weizenecker's single, a sacrifice and another single by Roger Stille got two more runs home.

Weizenecker was the only batter with two hits in the game.

The defeat was the second in a row for the Merchants, Salem will be looking for its first Penn-Ohio League victory of the season at 8:45 p.m. Friday when league-leading Farrell 7-Up invades Kelley Field.

Two-Run Homer Blasted by Post

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds can be glad today they got back Wally Post in a recent trade.

His two-run homer Tuesday night kept a Redleg rally moving and represented the difference in a 6-4 Cincinnati victory over Los Angeles.

Manager Fred Hutchinson said of the trade after it was completed last week:

"We strengthened our bench and stepped up our attack."

That's just what the Redlegs needed, because the team's batting had faded out—conspicuously in the past month.

But there was no evidence of this Tuesday night. With Johnny Podres starting for the Dodgers, Cincinnati went right to work.

In the third inning, the Reds' current best hitter, Eddie Kasko, started it all with a single, stole second and scored on Gus Bell's safety.

Post's first contribution of the night came here—a single—and Bell scored when Podres was charged with a balk as he dropped the ball when starting to pitch.

Then came the fifth, started again by Kasko with a single. Vada Pinson also singled and Bell's sacrifice fly put a marker across.

The Reds went on to put over an unearned insurance run in the eighth. Jerry Lynch pinch singled and on Joe Nuxhall's forceout, Maury Willis threw wild, setting up Kasko's run-making single.

The lead had almost melted in the sixth when starter Bob Purkey lost his shutout touch.

Norm Larker and John Roseboro each hit two-run homers, before he snuffed out the rally. Nuxhall and Jim Brosnan later put down Dodger threats to preserve Purkey's sixth triumph.

The second of three games against the Dodgers comes tonight with Jay Hook and Stan Williams pitching.

GOLF TOURNEY OPENS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The 12th annual Western Seniors Golf Tournament opens here today with George Dawson of Glen Ellyn, Ill., defending his title against 234 other golfers. Dawson has taken the title the past two years.

The entrants come from 35 states and range in age from 55 to the late 80s. The two-day 36-hole medal play is scheduled over Scioto Country Club's 6,662-yard par 72 course.

Stove Leagues who have yet to suffer at least one loss. They are Deming CIO of Class E, Farmers Bank of Class F and Kresge and Home Furniture of Class H.

Class E

Butch Crawford lashed out a home run, double and two singles to lead Eljer CIO to an 8-1 victory over Youngstown Kitchens CIO.

The win elevated Eljer from the basement into third place ahead of Bliss CIO. By losing second place Youngstown Kitchens dropped 3 1/2 games behind Deming Co. CIO which has a 6-0 record.

Pitchers Dick Sweitzer and Gary Edwards of Youngstown Kitchens gave up only seven hits, but Crawford's heavy sticking gave them fits. Kitchens, however, pretty much beat itself by committing nine errors.

Roger Ziegler handled the hurling chores for Eljer. He fanned 10 and walked two.

Phil Conley and Dick Stark each collected two hits for the losers.

It took Kitchens nine innings to pull off the upset. The fray was tied at 5-all after the regulation seven innings. Singles by Tony Rush and Rusty Hackett and a double by Jon Steele highlighted a four-run uprising by Youngstown Kitchens in the ninth inning.

Slugging Dave Thomas kept Fisher's in the game for eight innings with his heavy hitting. He rapped out four straight hits, including a pair of homers.

Steele received credit for the victory. He pitched the last five innings, striking out eight batters. Starter and loser Frank Candler of Fisher's was knocked out of the box in the ninth inning.

Firemen edged Bricker & Bricker 12-11 and Eagles outslug Italian Club 25-14 in Class G action.

A hit batsman and two costly infield errors enabled Firemen to tally two unearned runs in the sixth inning and edge Bricker & Bricker.

Pitcher Ricky Metts of Bricker's experienced control trouble and kept himself in hot water with nine bases on balls. His teammates made matters worse, committing five errors. Firemen collected 12 runs on only three hits.

One of those three hits was a home run by Joe Markovich which followed a walk and two errors after two men were out.

George Zeller accounted for three of Bricker's nine hits off winner Rod Bentley. Zeller also had a walk to give him a perfect night at the plate.

Billy Rist lined out two home runs, a double and a single for Eagles in its 25-14 rout of Italian Club. Thayer Scott collected three singles for the losers.

This game was full of walks and strikeouts. Ron Whitehill and Rist combined to fan 13 Italian Club batters but they also issued 14 bases on balls. Three Italian Club pitchers struck out seven and walked 16.

Questions and Answers

Q—Why is Maundy Thursday so called?

A—Maundy Thursday is an English corruption of "the Latin mandati. The day was called "Dies mandate," the day of the mandate, from the fact that Christ on that Thursday evening gave His followers "A new commandment—that ye love one another."

Minister Faces Church Trial

Pacifist Refuses To Pay Income Tax

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Presbytery has decided to hold a trial under church law of a controversial pacifist minister who won't pay his taxes.

The Rev. Maurice F. McCrackin is the center of the presbytery action, announced Tuesday night without other comment from church leaders.

The presbytery said its leaders want to determine if the minister is right or wrong in his stand against taxes.

The Rev. Mr. McCrackin says he hates war, and because income taxes help pay for weapons of war, he won't pay.

He said he has refused to pay part or all his tax since 1949.

The minister served five months in federal prison last year for refusing to answer an Internal Revenue Service summons to talk over his taxes.

His church, West Cincinnati-St. Barnabas, a combined and integrated Presbyterian Episcopal congregation, welcome him back.

Presbytery church leaders did not say what the trial procedure would be, nor did they indicate what action might be taken if the Rev. Mr. McCrackin is found guilty.

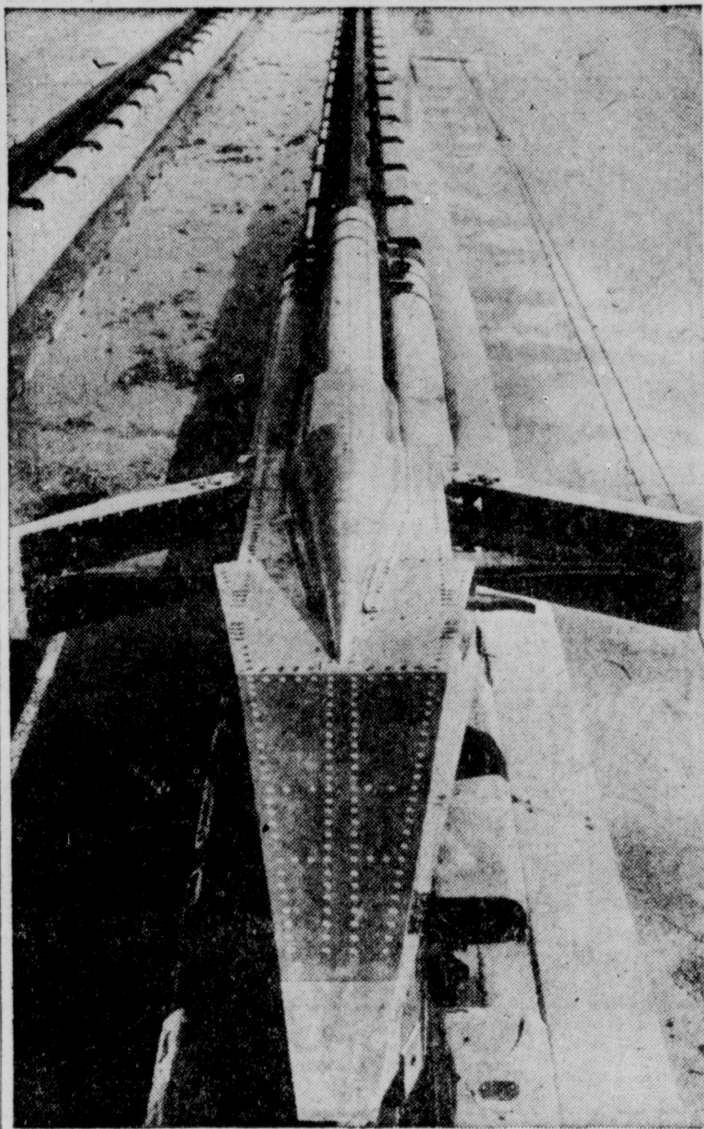

The presbytery, representing 72 southeast Ohio churches, said a commission was named to investigate these charges against the minister.

He refused to file income tax returns or pay tax.

"This repudiation of a particular law has led to repudiation in the process of law."

The Rev. Mr. McCrackin claiming that he has acted out of conscience in his disobedience of civil authority, is now encouraging others to likewise refuse to pay their income tax or file income tax reports.

The second charge, involving process of law, apparently refers to the minister's passive resistance during his U.S. District Court trial. The Rev. Mr. McCrackin declined to take any part in the trial. He forced court aides to carry him in and out of the courtroom and refused to aid court-appointed attorneys in his defense.

Paulson Resigns Post In Columbiana Council

COLUMBIANA The resignation of Republican member Wayne Paulson effective July 31, was read at Village Council meeting on Tuesday night.

Paulson, appointed earlier this year to serve out the unexpired term of the late Kenneth Gormley, blamed the press of personal affairs for the resignation.

His formal letter to the Council president noted that he is in the process of establishing an accounting service, and because of the time that operation will require, in addition to his continuing responsibilities as publisher of The Ledger, he would be unable to devote adequate attention to the position of councilman.

In other business Council approved a resolution authorizing the advertisement for bids on a village street seal coating program.

Bids are asked for four alternate amounts 10,000, 20,000, 30,000 and 40,000 square yards — and the amount of the bids will determine the extent of the street improvement and maintenance program for his summer.

Bids are due by July, and contracts probably will be let within a week of that.

OFFICERS FOR the 1960-61 year which starts in September were installed when the Columbiana Mothers Club met Monday night at the home of Mrs. Dale Young, with Mrs. James R. Garstick as associate hostess. The new officers, seated by Mrs. Robert Cope, are:
